Description

Charles-Emmanuel Sarélot, trained from a young age in the family tradition of organ building, leads the Manufacture Languedocienne de Grandes Orgues (MLGO), established in 1998. Following in the footsteps of his father, Pierre Sarélot, Charles-Emmanuel honed his skills at the "Benoist/Sarélot" workshops in Sarthe, where he was educated in both the construction and tuning of organs. Under his management, MLGO has grown to include a team of five dedicated employees.

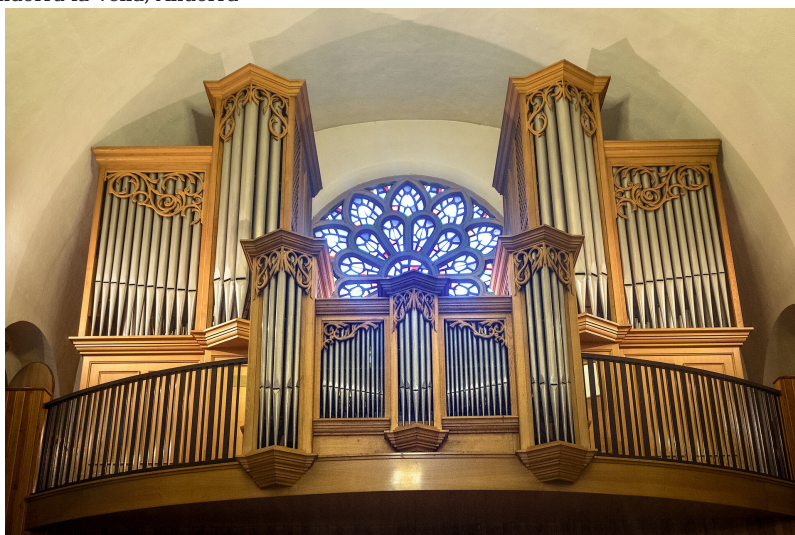

The company's focus is solely on the specialized field of organ building. This includes the construction and assembly of large church organs as well as smaller organs tailored for private use. Additionally, MLGO is involved in the restoration, lifting, and maintenance of these instruments. They offer these services based on contractual agreements or upon request, ensuring each organ they handle is crafted and maintained with the highest level of expertise and attention to detail.
