Description

The organ was constructed by Kuhn Orgelbau AG in 2019. Notably, the so-called 'Tower Division' is not a separate organ in the traditional sense. However, it is not assigned to any of the four remaining organs of the minster as a secondary piece, which gives it a special standing. The 'Tower Division', which is located in a chamber of the southern rooster tower, consists of three separately detachable manual works and does not have its own console. Rather, it can only be played from the main console. Interestingly, the organ has been fitted with unique solo registers.
